Dear Los Angeles County Cities,

Global Green is a national environmental non-profit with over 20 years of leadership in green urbanism and sustainability in the built environment. We strongly encourage your participation in Los Angeles County's new Community Choice Energy (LACCE) program.

Following other successful examples of Community Choice Aggregation across the country, the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors has unanimously approved LACCE, accompanying an extensive, third party verified feasibility study of cost-effectiveness. We urge cities to follow the example set forth by county leadership and implement Community Choice Energy.

LACCE has unique potential to provide benefits and opportunities, giving communities local control of their energy supply mix and allowing them to move away fossil fuel dependence. The feasibility study shows that LACCE will meet and exceed both our Climate Action Plan goals and Renewable Portfolio Standards. The study also confirms the potential for green job creation, competitive rate stability and local access to alternative energy sources for underserved communities.

Global Green defines sustainability in terms of environment, equity and economy. There is a trifecta of opportunity in Community Choice Aggregation and we strongly encourage implementation of LACCE in your city.

Sincerely,
